THE BUILDING OF THE SHIP

Arranged by Randall Penhale

(THE LAUNCHING)

All is finished! and at length
Has come the bridal day
Of beauty and of strength.
To-day the vessel shall be launched,
With fleecy clouds the sky is blanched,
And o'er the bay,
Slowly, in all his splendors dight,
The great sun rises to behold the sight.

—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

LEPANTO

Don John calling through the blast and the eclipse,
Crying with the trumpet, with the trumpet of his lips,
Trumpet that sayeth ha!

Domino gloria!

Don John of Austria,
Is shouting to the ships.

He sees as in a mirror on the monstrous twilight sea,
The crescent of his cruel ships whose name is mystery;
They fling great shadows foe-wards, making Cross and Castle dark,
They veil the plumed lions on the valleys of St. Mark;
And above the ships are palaces of brown, black-bearded chiefs,
And below the ships are prisons, where with multitudinous griefs,
Christian captives sick and sunless, all a labouring race repines
Like a race sunken cities, like a nation in the mines.

—G. K. Chesterton.

RENASCENCE

I saw at sea a great fog-bank
Between two ships that struck and sank;
A thousand screams the heaven smote;
And every scream tore through my throat;
No hurt I did not feel, no death
That was not mine; mine each last breath
That, crying, met an answering cry
From the compassion that was I.

—Edna St. Vincent Millay.

GLOUCESTER MOORS

Scattering wide or brown in ranks,
Yellow and white and brown,
Boats and boats from the fishing banks
Come home to Gloucester town.
There is cash to purse and spend,
There are wives to be embraced,
Hearts to borrow and hearts to lend,
And hearts to take and keep to the end,—
O little sails, make haste!

—William Vaughn Moody.

Views

A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring:
There shallow draughts intoxicate the brain,
And drinking largely sobers us again.
—Pope.

Even in the meanest sorts of Labor, the whole soul of a man is composed into a kind of real harmony the instant he sets himself to work.

—Carlyle.

But the voice of a school boy rallies the ranks;
Play up! Play up! and Play the game!
—Sir Henry Newhall.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Although the student body does not have intimate association with the members of the Board of Education we all realize that the true spirit of helpfulness is behind the efforts which they have put forth during the school year. We realize that the members of the board are largely responsible for the many things that have so improved our school life. It is because of their generosity that we have the best equipment obtainable. They have procured for us the splendid library now maintained throughout the high school.

To the Board of Education the class of 1930 express their sincere appreciation for the cooperation and help which they have manifested during the past four years.

MR. H. S. DOOLITTLE, A. B., A. M.
University of Michigan
Superintendent

By his leadership and great administrative ability the students and faculty of the Negaunee High School have become acquainted with Mr. Doolittle.

Every student, at one time or another, has had the opportunity of conversing with him and in doing so found that in him he had a loyal and kind friend.

Being a man of wide versatility he is always busy, but every boy and girl knows that he is never too occupied to speak a word of encouragement or sympathy when it is needed.

Because of this Mr. Doolittle occupies a place in the heart of each and every student under his guidance.

FROM THEN TILL NOW

In attempting to chronicle the main events of our high school during the past year, I am reminded of the old saying, "Happy is the nation whose annals are short." In the days when nearly all history consisted of accounts of battles and military campaigns, very little was written concerning the nation whose people were peaceful, happy and industrious.

This has been our situation for the past year or more. There have been no radical changes or spectacular developments but we believe that there has been a gradual improvement and progress which is very gratifying.

Our enrollment in the senior and junior high school has increased by five, though there has been a decrease of fifty in the grades below the high school.

Four high school teachers resigned at the close of last year: Miss Myrtle E. Bice, Mr. Malcolm M. Smith, Miss Margaret Gibbons and Miss Helen DuChene. Miss Dorothy Teehan, who taught in the junior high, is away this year on leave of absence to complete work for her degree at the University of Montana.

Six new names have been added to our faculty list. Mr. Randall Penhale, a graduate of American University at Washington, D. C., succeeded Miss Bice. Mr. Otto A. Bolt, a graduate of Calvin College, with a Master's degree from the University of Michigan, succeeded Mr. Smith. Miss Janet Heitch, a graduate of the University of Michigan, succeeded Miss Gibbons and Miss Gertrude Moutrie was made head of the Home Economics department; Miss Viola Perala, who had her training at the Marquette and Kalamazoo Normals, was employed to fill the remaining vacancy in this department. Miss Enid Mitchell, a graduate of the Marquette Normal, has Miss Teehan's place temporarily. Mr. J. I. Wilson, who taught Forging in the Calumet High School for 21 years, was employed as an additional instructor in the Manual Training Department.

Over seven thousand dollars was spent in improving our Playground and athletic field, so that we now have one of the best in the Upper Peninsula. We can well be proud of it. In the high school building, practically no alterations have been made, but considerable attention has been devoted to improved lighting and ventilation of rooms and a number of pictures have been added to give class rooms a more attractive and home-like appearance.

Probably the one improvement which is most noticeable to students is the addition of quite a large number of new and attractive books to our room libraries throughout the high school. Our reading program has always been strongly featured, but the most satisfactory results have been obtained during the past year. The ninth grade read an average of 25 books per pupil during the year and some of the other grades did nearly as well.

In the commercial department, the course of study has been changed so that practically all of the strictly commercial subjects will be given during the junior and senior years.

Many other noticeable changes have occurred and still others are in progress, but it would require a much more extended report to list all of them. The one unchangeable feature in all educational work is that it is always changing to keep pace with modern methods, and with science and invention. It is our policy always to "Be not the first by whom the new is tried Nor yet the last to cast the old aside."

MR. O. L. THORSON, A. B.
St. Olaf College
Graduate Work—University of Chicago
Principal

Though Mr. Thorson has been with us for a relatively short time he has shown his true worth to every member of the student body and faculty. In dealing with school problems he has shown unfailing tact and judgment and a wealth of experience. In his position as principal he comes in contact with the students very often and at these times he has made known his willingness to cooperate with them in their efforts.

We shall always remember Mr. Thorson as a willing and conscientious guide and a helpful friend.

THE SCHOOL OF TODAY

Many people are prone to question the validity of much that goes on in the modern high school. They are inclined to wonder if education is not running amuck and losing a large share of the accepted characteristics of the school of yesterday. The critics seem to have little quarrel with the academic classroom and its activities, which are the seeming traditional aspects of school life. Few, indeed, there are who even suspect that these traditional aspects of the modern school are only remotely related to the classroom procedures of the "readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic" days. The distinctions are subtle, and consequently the entire ritual of lessons and recitations is held to be educationally orthodox.

But there is not the same disposition to accept and sanction what appears to be more novel in the school of today—the so-called frills of education. Many of these features which are often criticized, are the activities designated by the misleading term, extra-curricular. These activities are by no means the sum total of the experience boys and girls acquire in high school; and yet, strangely enough, it is these activities which almost exclusively provide opportunity for school publicity. Included among their number are athletics, music, forensics, publications, dramatics, social affairs, and school clubs, hardly any of which were present in the secondary school program of a generation ago, and which now have become well-nigh indispensable in the educational function. Today when we have classes organized for and school time allotted to physical education, public speaking, play production, band, orchestra, news writing, and diverse other activities, and when the school is coming more and more to assume sponsorship of social affairs and pupil organizations, it is hardly correct to think of these interests as extra-curricular. They are curricular, but as such they supplement and enrich rather than displace the content of the traditional secondary school curriculum. The fact that these activities have curriculum value is their chief justification. Through them the high school becomes an environment in which young people are guided and trained to do better those things which they would normally be doing anyway.

SENIORS

The days are numbered until the time when the class of '30 will take a last lingering look on their dear N. H. S. and leave her forever. Her long, cool halls, her enchanting libraries and class rooms thronged with smiling friends and willing, anxious teachers, will only be a pleasant memory.

Through four short years of high school we have raced our cheerful way. Always there has been a haunting foreboding surrounding that dread day when we should be compelled to leave. In anticipation we have endeavored to add all in our power to your prestige. In basketball, football, track—in forensics, dramatics, music—in all the avenues of high school life, we have helped to establish a scholastic standard of the highest degree of excellence.

We must now bid you adieu, but with this prayer in our hearts:

“When in future years we have achieved,
The dream you fostered in us. May we then
Return, and thanking you again may mend
The friendships broken to heed fortune's call.”

THE RISING SUN

Day after day during the heated summer months of 1787, that magnificent body of men, the Constitutional Convention, convened, working unceasingly in their efforts to formulate a government for their country. It was no easy task, and wretched months of constant wrangling were finally capped in the last few weeks with utter despair. One man alone patiently endured. Benjamin Franklin, the sage of America, remained immobile, meditative, but always alert. From his seat he faced directly the presiding officer. Painted upon the wall behind the high straight chair of the officer, by some unknown artist, was a glorious sun. The figure was complete in its beauty, for not even the rays and beams were omitted. Finally our Constitution reached perfection and once again those notable men could breathe freely. On the last day of that meeting, Franklin was called upon to express his opinion of the finished document. The man rose slowly, looking directly at the artistry on the wall, and said quite simply, "I have often and often in the course of the session, and the vicissitudes of my hopes and fears as to its session, looked at that behind the president without being able to tell whether it was rising or setting; but now at length I have the happiness to know that it is a rising and not a setting sun. The rising of American ideals! The rising of America herself!"

And so it was. Year after year our country grew, and all could be traced back to the efforts of the brilliant men represented in the Constitutional Convention. Our Constitution is the most amazing example in history of the value of education.

Within the next few months more than a million young men and women will graduate from the nation's high schools. Now, for the last time, we are meeting here as a class. Beneath the pomp, the glory, the pride of having attained the goal which for four years we have been struggling to reach, there is a tender sadness and an inexpressible gratitude—sadness that we leave our school which for us shall be the shrine of our youth, and gratitude for the constant encouragement we have received from our parents, our teachers, and our friends. No wild hilarity possesses us, for deep in our hearts there is a calmness born of comradeship, and a song throbbing with the pride of accomplishment.

I speak of pride of accomplishment! For every one of us there have been some difficulties that it has taken strength to overcome. Many have not had the courage to thrust aside the impediment and now may not share with us the reward of the victors. For four years we have been striving, straining, grasping, gaining to attain one end—graduation. How much is conveyed in that one word! All our hopes, our aspirations, our achievements for four years end, now, in—graduation. We have faced discouragements, losses, disappointments, together with victories, triumphs, successes, and through them there has been a completion of the beginning of our education. We cannot hope that this beginning will bring the marvelous results of 1787, but we are content to know that continual patient and painstaking work will bring us success in our own small sphere.

The purpose of all education is to help us find a niche in human society in which we will be happy to serve and for which service there will be a satisfactory reward. Let us go back sixteen years to a morning, January 7, in 1914, and note the part education played in one of the largest enterprises America has ever under-

VALEDICTORY

MARTHA WILJANEN

The Tired Old World sat by the roadside watching them go by—little ones and big ones, fat ones and lean ones, short ones and tall ones. They were all going in one direction. They were all so eager and so hurrying, and yet—time was so bounteous and free.

“Wouldn’t it be great,” sighed the Tired Old World as it heard a universal school bell, “wouldn’t it be great if the whole of us could have a first of September all our lives, every year, as long as we lived?” It would be great, would it not? For some of us, however, these September firsts end tonight. Each year for twelve years we have come face to face with this day. Most of the time its dawning has brought a new thrill of anticipation, a desire to try our hands at more difficult tasks.

For some inexplicable reason the memory of a tramp in the woods last summer seems to haunt me tonight. At that time I passed an enjoyable hour watching a family of robins. The baby robins were attempting their first flight from the nest. The trial and success of each of the three birds presented a strange lesson. The first robin had barely given its wings a chance, when it flew back. The second, quite confidently, flew further but fell to the earth several rods distant. The last one, first slowly trying its wings, gradually gathered strength, and soaring high was lost amid the clouds, leaving only the echo of a clear note in its wake.

How very like that family of robins we are. We have reached that critical stage in our lives that those three robins were facing on that bright morning last summer.

Some of us are like the robin who, after trying his wings, flew back to the nest. We will go out into the world and try to do some good; but we will become confused at the combats of life, and we will go back to the protection of our homes.

Others of us will immediately try to soar to the height of our ambition without seeing the pitfalls and disappointments along the way. When we find out that our work has been like “sowing seed on the surface of the sea,” we will turn back and begin all over again. We will look for that talent, that power, that opportunity of doing good and getting good that every man possesses. As we use it, it will gradually increase, improve, and become native to our character.

Finally, there are those among us who will begin at the bottom. By degrees, we will get nearer to our goal. The assurance that some day we will succeed, will give us energy and enthusiasm. We will be the ones who move as a stream and not those who stand like a pool.

The wish to succeed is an element in every undertaking without which achievement is impossible. The ambition to succeed is the mainspring of activity, the driving-wheel of industry, the spur to intellectual and moral progress. The building of nations, the cultivation of ideals, the advancement of mankind—all these come in answer to the call of ambition.

Looking back over the years we have travelled, we can see many people who have been responsible for our success. There are our teachers who have always been ready and eager to show us the right way, the best way. Through their eyes we have seen what is to inspire us in the near future. We have grown to love them and to respect them, and it is with sad hearts that we come to part. We see the fathers who have made it possible for us to begin and complete the first, and in some instances the only lap of our education.

We see one face with steadfast eyes and a whimsical mouth that is most dear to us. Kindness, repose of manner, tolerance, generosity—these things are written in her face. In her heart she has no little standards by which to measure her fellowmen. Because she has humor, courage, and sympathy, youth sits at her feet—youth, eager-eyed, dreaming or bitter, comes to her with no reservations and tells her frankly of its very urge. From the depths of experience and understanding, she gives aid to youth and turns its thoughts into saner, finer, sturdier channels. When the son in whom she finds the most pride, comes to her, cast down in his youthful soul, synical, and baffled, she places her hand on his head and whispers, "Life was not meant to be easy; men were meant to be brave." This face belongs to one whom men can fittingly call, "Guardian Angel of the Ages—Mother."

The Tired Old World sits by the roadside. Along the dusty highway the Class of '30 is marching and the Tired Old World notes its passing. "Dear Children," she says, "I am glad to see you with such happy faces and joy-filled hearts. I hope you will not become too quickly disillusioned when you meet with obstacles. Remember this, my children; I will give you happiness and peace and contentment of soul in exchange for a square deal from you. Now, since you are bidding farewell, not only to treasured recollections but also to realities, I bid you all to light a candle in the shrine of your heart; it is your motto, 'They can because they think they can'."

SALUTATORY

EVELYN ERICKSON

Education at times during the life of growing youth seems more or less a waste of time and effort. Could we but realize, in our younger years, what the lack of it means in our later life, parents and teachers would have less trouble and worry impressing upon us the necessity and value of an education. The years slip by very quickly, and when we neglect the opportunities to secure the knowledge that will make life more complete, we will more frequently, as we grow older, realize its true value.

The world is constantly changing and progressing. Life each day is becoming more complex. Competition is keener in every line of endeavor. It behooves us, therefore, to take advantage of the exceptional opportunities offered by the wonderful school systems of this country in order to secure the best possible education. No sacrifice is too great to secure this knowledge. The completion of the high school course should be only the first step and our aim and ambition must be to get that higher, specialized training for which we feel that we are best fitted.

The world has progressed as education has broadened and will continue to make its onward march by the development and extension of education. The countries today enjoying the greatest freedom, happiness, and well-being are those offering the opportunity of universal education.

Our first step has been completed. It is by far the most important in our lives. It is with this realization of the value of our high school education that we appear before you this evening. Dear parents, faculty members, members of the Board of Education, schoolmates, and friends; on behalf of the class of 1930, I greet you and bid you welcome! It is with the fullest appreciation of the fact that this achievement of ours has been accomplished with the help of your devotion, loyalty, kindness, and sacrifice, and that our debt of gratitude must be measured accordingly.

To you, dear parents, goes the larger share of our appreciation and gratitude. You have supplied our wants, comforted us in times of sickness and stress, encouraged us when our spirits were low, and cheered us with loving words and deeds. Words cannot convey the feeling in our hearts. May our success and happiness repay you for your devotion.

To you, kind teachers, our debt is nearly as great. Your patience, devotion, and efforts in our behalf during our high school years will ever be remembered. Your interest and loyalty has never failed and has helped us immensely to attain this coveted goal. We extend our heartiest thanks and appreciation.

Lower classmen: to you our debt of gratitude is for the splendid cooperation and good fellowship you have accorded us during our high school career. These have contributed greatly to the enjoyment and the success of our school activities. We tender our sincere appreciation and best wishes.

To all of you we wish to express our sincere appreciation and gratitude, and we hope that our success will merit the interest you have manifested. Your presence here tonight on this eventful occasion is a further inspiration to us upon our departure from our high school life.

It is a great pleasure to have you with us; and again, on behalf of the class of 1930, I bid you welcome!

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

In the Library of Accomplishments in the Negaunee High School stand four volumes. It will be found that they contain the history of the Class of '30.

In September, 1926, we began our four-year march toward higher learning. Rudolph Thoren, Robert Archibald, Martha Wiljanen, and Edward Pearce were chosen as the leaders. Miss Smedman was our advisor. As our beacon light we chose the words, "Possunt quia posse videntur" (They can because they think they can).

Some of the members of the class ventured into the fields of athletics, music, and forensics. Aurelia Hendrickson carried off the honors at the Declamation Contest.

Our class party proved to be the grand finale to a successful year.

The next fall we entered school as Sophomores. Savino Bessolo, Allen Johns, Martha Wiljanen, and Rudolph Thoren were chosen as the class officers. Miss Cory took Miss Smedman's place as advisor.

We were victors once more in the Declamation Contest, Arthur Doolittle receiving first place. He got first place at the Sub-District and District, and third at the State Contest. This was the first time a Negaunee student was so honored.

The annual party was attended by a large number of the students and it goes down as a successful social event.

We entered our Junior year determined for a good harvest. Allen Johns, Sylvia Hemmila, Martha Wiljanen, and Savino Bessolo were elected as officers.

We were outstanding in forensics. Arthur Doolittle and Rita Rogers won first and second places respectively in the Oratorical Contest. Arthur won first place in the Sub-District contest and second place in the District. A few members of the class were on the debate teams.

Our play, "The Goose Hangs High", was a success both financially and dramatically.

The "Butterfly Ball," on May 10, attracted an unusually large number to trip the "light fantastic" to music by Cavi's Elks of Iron Mountain.

When we began our last year many had dropped out, but nevertheless we still were a good class. Allen Johns, Martha Wiljanen, Savino Bessolo, and Arthur Doolittle were the officers. Mr. Miller was our advisor.

We were represented in every department in the school, proving successful in dramatics, music, athletics, forensics, and lastly, but not least, in scholarship. The play, "The Haunted House," was a marked success.

In May we had our Senior-Faculty Banquet and then in June came—graduation.

On the last page of this volume is written in a flowing hand:

"They have accomplished everything they set out to do because they thought they could!"

—M. W.

THE PARADE OF THE CLASS OF '30

Slowly, steadily, they go marching by—tall and short, thin and fat, all in the best of camaradie. There's a man in the dashing costume of a toreador. As he comes nearer he seems more familiar. Why it is John Torreano, the idol of Argentina. Here is Pops Lahti so heavily burdened with books that he looks like a very learned man. Who is this strange man walking backwards with his hat turned around? Ahaa—it is Robert Kappes, the second Sherlock Holmes. And this young woman in the native costume of the Hawaiians? None than Gwenny Wallis. Now who is this group of charming dancers? One who seems to be their teacher is a little ahead of them and he is—Ed. Mager! And his pupils? Nearer and nearer they come, slender, willowy figures swaying gently in time to the music of their bagpipes. Why it is Elizabeth Seass, Rudy Thoren, Eleanor Chevrette, Emmy Mathews, and Ed. Pearce. As they pass they toss flowers to the admiring crowd. Immediately following comes a long line of sober faced individuals dressed in the characteristic black and white of prisoners. Allan Johns heads the procession and each with a hand upon the shoulder of the one in front comes Mamie Jokela, Ed. Goldsworthy, Taima Martinen, Wm. Kallatsa, Fedora Prout, Elizabeth Pascoe, Florence Mitchell, L. Heinonen, and Harry Marshall. There is a scurrying of feet as of one in haste, and turning my head I behold Rita Rogers late as usual. I suppose she forgot the tune of the Prisoners song and had to go back for it. A decided contrast is this group of hilarious revelers. These red nosed individuals symbolic of the pre-prohibition period. They are Glenmore Trembath, Ossy Kemp, John Crowe, Art Antell, and Donald Bellstrom. As their sounds of revellry becomes fainter, a different tune comes to my ear. Soft, sweet lullabys introduces the Nursemaids Union composed of Margaret Koski, Irene Huttula, Helen Anderson, Florence Thomas, Signe Taskila, Florence Clayton, and Evelyn Erickson. Next with stately step, comes a group of men in caps and gowns. Noted professors of their subjects are they. The ones thus garbed are Walter Johnson, Reino Maki, Paul Goodman, Oscar Welhmanen, Art Doolittle, Suppie Dessolo, Hartley Haynes, Reino Leppilampi, and John Rowse. There is a gap in the stream of people, but it is quickly filled by a large crowd of cowboys and girls mounted on horses. These Westerners are M. Burroughs, Jane Miller, Julius Robertson, Chris Anderson, Mary Makela, Dorothy Greenway, Signe Jokinen, Phylis Skues, and Anna Forstrom. There is one lone rider at the end who is galloping fiercely to keep up with the others. It is Weldon Kemp, and his lasso is trailing in the dust, and caught in it and trying to escape is Genevieve Thomas. And here comes a ramshackle old flivver brightly painted with glaring colors. Walter Sandstrom is the driver and he seems to have quite a load in his car. There is Bertha Granlund, Edith Hampton, Martha Vanni, Aurelia Hendrickson, Lillian Anderson, Vic. Williams, Laina Lukkarainen, and Helen Roberts. Racing in vain at high speed after the car to "bum" a ride comes a group of hoboes including Ev. Senobe, George Kivela, Philip Larson, Matt Gleason, Ralph Lindstrom, Mareo Portale, and Marvin Williamson. In passing they go through various wild antics usually credited to acrobats. Then the people draw back instinctively as a large cage on wheels goes by. There seems to be a wild man inside—but no, it is Sadie Bennett who lost his sight while in a burlesque show in Chicago. He rushes from side to side muttering and screaming, "I want my sight—give me my sight." His crys are drowned by the Funeral March played by our own Hi-School Band in their new uniforms (though now a little the worse for wear). Directly behind the band comes a woman with a

CLASS WILL

We, the class of 1930, having been examined by Dr. Iam A. Quack for mental diseases, and claimed sound in mind, do hereby make, publish and declare this to be our last will and testament.

To the Board of Education we extend our grateful thanks for the holidays they have spared us.

To the Juniors we leave our back seats and a well known "graft" with Miss Susy Kearns.

To the Sophomores we bequeath our American History notebooks.

To the Freshies we leave our success in everything we have attempted.

To anyone who is capable of holding it, "Dick" Johns leaves his honorable residential seat.

Rita Rogers wills her successful oratorical career to Lois Pearce (She ought to make a fiery orator).

Miriam Vanni leaves her infectious giggle to any Freshie who wants it.

Laina Lukkarainen, Bertha Granlund, and Lillian Anderson bequeath their places in Mr. Dally's Woodwork class to Helen Ree, Anna Choquette and Janet Barasa.

"Jocko" Torreano leaves his graft with Miss Kearns to Sheldon Collins.

Signe Taskila and Genevieve Thomas will their popularity with the boys to anyone who needs it.

Arthur Doolittle bequeaths his position as center in the Basketball Team to Eino Kujala.

Fedora Prout leaves her comfortable seat in Mr. Miller's room to Mary Beamer, in the hope that she may enjoy it as much as Fedora did.

Signe Jokinen leaves her kid curlers to Helen Winter.

"Bun" Goodman leaves his "boop-a-doop" place in the Blue-Blowers to Carl Martin.

Dorothy Greenway refused to will her friend "Joe" to anyone.

Florence and Eddie bequeath their regular Sunday night Vista-Chocolate Shop visit to Charlotte Phillips and Jimmy Thomas.

"Speck" Williams leaves his "Vieno" to anyone who can get her.

Irene Huttula and Taima Martinen will their popularity with the out-of-town boys to Emma Nelson and Elsie Dixon.

Lloyd Heinonen leaves all his airplane propellers to Lawrence Anderson.

Robert Kappes bequeaths his strut to Allan Phillips—perhaps he doesn't need it.

Victoria Williams leaves her ability to tickle the keys to Lester Flannery.

In Witness Whereof, we hereunto set our hands and seal this first day of June, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and thirty.

THE RISING SUN

taken. A magnificent sun pours gold over the water of a completed Panama Canal. A ship, the crane boat Alexander La Valley, saunters up the perfect stream. An unhampered river, as faultless as Nature's own creations, connects the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. France tried and failed. The United States took up her unfinished task and through the untiring efforts of master minds did what no one else could do. It was education that built the Panama just as it performs all miraculous deeds. With this in mind, I may well ask the question, "What is a high school education worth?"

Obviously the niche occupied by high school graduates should be higher than those whose education was cut short. But a high school education, like that of a grammar school, is purely foundational. It is when we leave our school that we shall begin to learn. Then, we must face the responsibilities of life.

We must look beyond graduation. More and more it is becoming necessary for men and women in all walks of life to look ahead. It is doubtful if there will ever come a time in the lives of the class of '30, when there will be greater need to use the powers of foresight and imagination than now. We have approached the time when ten to twelve years of study should begin to pay dividends. If we destroy the foundation we have received here, we shall be destroying the very ideals of education. The sun must forever rise and

"We must live in deeds, not years;
In feelings, not in figures on a dial;
In thoughts, not breaths;
We should count time by heart throbs.
He lives most, who thinks most,
Who feels the noblest and who acts the best."

—Allan Johns.

stately, dignified walk and dressed in the somberest of black. Who can that be? As she passes she turns her head. Why it is Sylvia Hemmila! Someone at my side whispers, "She sold her laugh to Henry Ford for his new cars, and now she must always mourn it." Slowly I turned my head and found myself face to face with Miriam Vanni, Mrytle Lenten, Martha Wilqanen, and Anne Moberg, all dressed in the latest fashions for the flapper aviatrixes. The recognition was mutual and so, in talking over our school days we became lost amid the crowd and the rest of the parade went by unnoticed.

CLASS SONG

Days of mingled sunshine and of woe
Spent in these halls we entered four years ago.
Each happy hour, each task done not in vain,
Bring back to us sweet mem-ries once again.

Chorus:

We have faithfully kept on our journey,
And the end has now drawn near ;
We've worked and played together
With the friends we've found so dear.
Though we bid thee now farewell,
With hearts that are fond and true,
We will always hold thee loyal ;
Negaunee High, adieu.

'Twas beneath your flag of gold and blue,
Within your walls we learned to honor you.
'Mid smiles and tears we struggled to uphold
Standards that made you loved in days of old.

Chorus:

Praises to your name we'll ever sing,
Blessings to you we'll ever strive to bring.
Through coming years we'll think of days gone by,
Days that we spent in dear Negaunee High.

Chorus:

—Helen R. Anderson.

IT SHALL BE DONE

When the present Junior Class first embarked as Freshmen in the Negaunee High School, they chose as their pilot the motto: "It Shall Be Done!" And, in truth, nothing was left undone. They swept every obstacle out of their way and entered new fields to conquer, new seas to sail. And often they were flowery fields or billowing seas.

But, in truth, it seems as though the gods favor them. For note: they have able leaders and scholars, athletes, artists, musicians, debaters, declaimers, ad infinitum.

And always it has been:
"It Shall Be Done!"

—I. N.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

In September of 1927, we, as Freshmen, gathered together, led by our advisor, Miss Smedman, to fight our way to the goal of Knowledge. With banners of brown and gold we started bravely on our way. We held a meeting and elected Blaine Heinonen as commander-in-chief and Mary Beamer as his assistant. Elizabeth Pascoe was to keep a record of the battles we won and Anna Choquette was to look after the financial affairs. Late in the year we took a rest from our hard struggles and gave a party.

Then after a brief rest we again resumed our journey to our goal, Knowledge. This time we chose Miss Palmer to guide us onward to the goal. George Rudness was chosen to lead us in the struggle, William Doyle was to help him, Helen Romo to record the happenings, and Anna Saladin to look after our finances. Some of the boys found time to enter the football and basketball teams. We again took a brief rest to give our annual Sophomore party, which was said to be the best party ever had.

Then all too soon began the third hard struggle to reach the goal of Knowledge. We were confident of overcoming any obstacles which should arise. We chose Mr. Moehrke to help us overcome the obstacles which arose in our path on our way toward the goal. William Doyle, Ida Niemi, Josephine Gambotto, and Trixie Miller were to help him in this task.

This year we had representatives in the field of athletics. Some of the boys came to the front in both football and basketball.

Early in the year there was a pause in our labors and we joined with the Seniors to give the annual Junior-Senior party. The party was held in the "gym", a gala affair, which was said by all to be the best party they had ever attended.

Talent was shown during the year in forensics. On January 24, we presented our class play, "The Charm School", which was a great success. Several members of the class took part in the All-School play, "Big Time."

The crowning event of the year, however, took place on May 23, when we gave our Junior Prom in a beautiful Japanese garden. The Prom was both a social and financial success, and was said to be the prettiest and best Prom ever held in the school.

Thus ends our third year. May we conquer the obstacles which arise in the coming year as successfully as those of the three previous years! May we end the last year with our banners of brown and gold held high!

NON MINISTRARI, SED MINISTRARE.

We, the class of '32, are here, "Not to be served, but to serve", and we have proved it in more than one way during our first two years in the Negaunee High. Have we not been well represented on the honor roll, in the All-School play, in the operetta, and the various other school activities and organizations? We hope that, during the remaining two years of our school career, and even when we have finished high school and are on the road to the realization of our ambitions, we will faithfully follow our motto, "Not to be served, but to serve."

—Goldie Waara.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

Like a sturdy ship setting out for a four year voyage, the class of '32 moored their boat and soon found their bearing on the seas of high school life. Very early in the voyage, the class found it necessary to elect a captain and three mates. The following were chosen: Captain—Walter Beamer; Second Captain, Claire Heinonen; Recorder of Important Events—Helen Raatikainen, and Treasurer—Arthur Lukkarainen. Miss Smedman served as Commander. In March at the declamatory contest, the Purple and Gold banners floated defiantly and, in the end, victoriously, for Theodore Stepens has won first place and Claire Hienonen, second. The class was well represented in the operetta also, Helen Raatikainen and Claire Heinonen having been given principal roles. After cruising about for about eight months the passengers grew very excited. It was time for the annual Freshman class party. And what a gala affair it was. Dancers waltzed amid flying balloons and colorful serpentine. Then after many pretty favors had been distributed, came the refreshments, and last but not least the battle with the French confetti. Soon one port was reached and all hands went ashore for a leave of two months.

All too soon the shore leave was over and our ship, under a new commander, Miss Palmer, embarked once more for new shores. Walter Beamer, having proved himself a successful leader the previous year was again elected to the responsibility of leadership. Clarence Goldsworthy was chosen a most successful assistant; Helen Raatikainen continued to record the important events, and Jean Steele took care of the finances. Again the class of '32 was victor in the annual declamatory contest, Claire Heinonen winning first place and Ruth Wassberg placing third. Helen Raatikainen again sang the leading roles in the operetta and cantata, and Jean Steele, Corinne Davey, Rose Perucco, and Francis Choquette were ably cast as principals in the all-school play "Big Time." The Sophomore party, a colorful and gay affair, marked a most fitting climax to the end of the second year's voyage and the happy passengers are thrilled with the hope of arriving at new ports, where they will carry on as successfully as they have during the past two years.

EN AVANT, FRESHMEN!

High School! At last! We had been dreaming of it for years and years. Now that we realized our dream, we determined to go ahead with a vim. "En Avant" is our motto—"Forward!"

At our organization meeting, we elected Carl Danielson, president; Charlotte Phillips, vice-president; Edna Rytönen, secretary; Jack Kirkpatrick, treasurer. For our colors we selected buff and blue; and for our class flower, the iris.

We have taken an active part in the numerous school activities. We are represented in almost every club in the school.

—Miriam Kallatsa.

CLASS OF '33

We took off September second in a huge airplane, christened "En Avant." Our first stop was at Careleton Day Program. Here we stayed for half an hour when we again took off. We sailed the blue sky on an even keel for quite awhile. At last in the middle of December we landed at Christmas Vacation. Here we stayed for two weeks while we refueled and overhauled.

During early January we again took to the sky, but in a month we hit some bumpy skies which were the semi-annual semester exams. During this, some fell out but most were caught on sky hooks. On February twelfth we landed at Declamatory Preliminaries. Those chosen to represent the class in the Sophomore-Freshman contest on March fourth were Kathleen Hubbert, Charlotte Phillips, Miriam Stephens, and James Thomas. Second place was awarded to James Thomas. After this it was smooth sailing for awhile. We stopped off at towns such as Basketball, Band, Orchestra, Chorus. Scouts, Campfire, All-School Play, Minervian Literary, Pep Club, Home Economics Club, French Club, and Aviation Club.

Our next stop was at Freshmen Party. Here we had a good time. Then we again took to the air. Our last stop was at Semester Examinations, after which we flew to the home port. We hope to have as good a trip next year.

—James Thomas.

THE SHIP

Riding silent in the twilight of resplendent gray,
A silver sparred ship as a phantom-white
With nun-like sails, moon-illuminated in their glory,
And hull, dimly radiant in the uncertain light—

Luringly it glides on a turquoise sea,
Star-lit masts aspiring to the sky;
Rhythmically it moves in the kindly breeze,
And I, on the shore, may only gaze—then sigh.

A HISTORY OF THE EIGHTH GRADE

The class of 1934 graduated from the Case Street School in the spring of 1928, and entered the Junior High School in the fall of that year.

The pupils were welcomed into the seventh grade by the following teachers; Miss Teehan, Miss Arneth, Miss McClung, and Mr. Rudness.

During the years 1928-'29, in the seventh grade, many new problems faced them.

Officers for the seventh grade were chosen.

The students enjoyed the general assembly and home room programs throughout the year.

The first semester examinations came in February, 1929.

In the month of April, 1929, the class had a party, at which all members had a good time. Mr. Rudness was in charge of the amusements and the other teachers served the refreshments.

In that same month, the declamatory contest, in which the seventh and eighth grades participated, was held. The declaimers of the seventh grade had been coached by Miss Teehan. The eighth grade carried off both first and second places.

In the spring of 1929, a busy school year ended.

Then, after a few months vacation, the class of 1934 began their last year in the Junior High School.

The teachers who awaited them were as follows: Miss McAuliffe, Miss Schoonover, Miss Thomas, and Mr. Hiney.

The eighth grade officers were chosen at the beginning of the year.

Home room and general assembly programs were attended by the students.

The twenty-fourth of February, 1930, was the date of the eighth grade party. Such a time as the members had! After the games, the members of the eighth grade partook of a delicious lunch.

Harry Trembath and Marjorie Harris won in the preliminary declamatory contest. The former received first and the latter second. In the final contest between the seventh and eighth grades, Harry Trembath won first place. The eighth grade colors are blue and white. Jack Arneth, Harold Dahlquist, and William Thomas were chosen as cheer leaders.

Every school year seems to be busy, but this year, for the class of '34, has been the busiest.

HISTORY OF THE SEVENTH GRADE—1929-1930.

Shortly after school began, the Seventh Grade met during the music hour and elected the officers for the year. They were as following:

President .....	Lucille Jensen
Vice-President .....	Ida Marie Field
Treasurer .....	Allie Hemmila
Secretary .....	Vaino Hill

Prior to this, the different sections had met and elected their officials, committees, etc., so that every thing was ready to follow out the program made out by Mr. Thorson.

One period each Wednesday was taken for home room activities. During this period each section met in their own rooms and had a program of some kind. This gave each pupil an opportunity to display his talents to his own home room group. Many of the programs were delightful and some not so good. All of the programs were arranged by a committee from the room and not by the teacher. As a whole they were very successful.

Christmas saw each room decked in splendor and sporting a "tree." Of course each room had a party.

The seventh grade party, on February seventh, was a great event. All of the girls and boys dressed in their "best" and enjoyed themselves playing games and watching the boxing. The "eats" were grand.

Valentine's day was another excuse for having a party. Valentines were distributed and so were apples, cookies, bananas, and pop. A good time? You bet.

In this way the Seventh Grade went through a hilarious, joyous, happy year.

THE HAUNTED HOUSE

The Haunted House, presented by the Senior Class on December eleventh, was a play we shall never forget. From the opening of the curtain upon the first act, to the end of the play, we were held breathless with suspense or laughing hilariously at the subtle comedy. The mystery began with the appearance of the very first character, the tramp, who entered through the window, only to be interrupted in his prowling and forced to conceal himself in the closet, by the entrance of Emily and Jack, the newly-weds, and their chauffeur, Thomas. To see the blushing bride moving about her new home, blissfully unsuspecting the sinister presence of the tough looking prowler, was enough to give anyone the shivers, to say nothing of the blinking lights, the thunderous rolling of chains, and the horrible, fiendish sobs and groans which seemed to emanate from overhead.

The relief we felt at the entrance of Duncan and Helen, long residents in the neighborhood, was quickly dispelled by the arrival of Jack's old sweetheart, Isabel, who kept the young groom in hot water by her threats to reveal Jack's past to Emily. But upon the report of a gun immediately following her tearful exit, and Duncan's solemn announcement of her murder, things began to seem too horrible to be borne.

From this point on, the amazing but quite impractical sleuthing of Duncan held us convulsed with laughter. This humorous action was ably supported by Ed, the milkman, with his "innocent face," and Ezra, the constable, whose fainting at the very mention of blood, became so frequent as to attract no attention whatsoever. The discovery of the tramp and his examination by the "scientific" Duncan, only added another element to an extremely tense situation. The arrival of Mr. Grogan, the detective from New York, didn't seem to relieve the tension at all; it rather complicated matters because of the deadlock which developed between Grogan and Duncan as to whether the mystery should be solved by psychoanalysis or by just arresting the likeliest fellow present. Duncan's psychoanalysis at last prevailed and a seance ensued; but this had to be interrupted by the lights going out again and a new paroxysm of maniacal laughter from upstairs.

After everyone had in turn been accused of the murder and then forgotten as new evidence was presented which incriminated still another suspect, we were at last furnished with another possibility in the arrival of Evans, the father of Emily. And sure enough, by means of the most amazing "scientific methods" ever employed in detection, the actual drugging of all present by means of doped wine, so that they were no longer able to conceal the truth, we found other startling confessions that Evans was the guilty man.

So far, all well and good, but now lo and behold, in walked the corpus delicti, escorted by Helen, and apparently as alive and well as ever. The baffled "criminologist," Duncan, however, was not to be undone by so slight a miscalculation as this unexpected circumstance; for he now accused Isabel herself of "the murder" and pointed to her missing shoe, which had been already discovered covered with blood.

But at last the mystery was to be really and truly solved, this time by the excited entrance of Ed, the milkman, who had been searching high and low for the murdered girl. "Help! Help! I found her!" yelled Ed. "She crawled into the bushes and died there!"

"Who is she; what is her name?" gasped Duncan.

"Nellie, the best cow I ever owned!"

JUNIOR PLAY

The Class of '31 had its chance to display dramatic ability on the night of January 24, in the presentation of the nationally known comedy, "The Charm School". Prior to the final curtain, it was not realized that certain members of the cast could be accredited with some of the William Haines type of "charm" or Clara Bow's "it". Now that their talents are known, it can be truthfully averred that the gods of favor must have been considering a possible cast of Juniors in Negaunee High School when "Charm School" was being composed.

The principals deserve high praise for the smoothness with which the play was rendered, and the minor characters for the excellent aid given to the leads. The untiring efforts of Mr. Randall R. Penhale throughout the six weeks of rehearsals, and his good judgment in the direction of practices, the diligent work, study, and a real depiction of characters—so natural for high school students—on the part of the cast are the underlying reasons for the success with which "The Charm School" met here.

The plot of the play relates in no uncertain manner the adventures of a handsome young automobile salesman, Austin Bevans, creditably portrayed by George Rudness. Bevans, scarcely out of his teens, inherited a girl's boarding school from a maiden aunt and insisted on running it himself. According to Bevans, the dominant feature in the education of the young girls of today should be Charm.

Despite a temporary (yet memorable) discontinuance of electric lighting towards the middle of the presentation, the comedy continued until the climax—flawless.

THE ALL-SCHOOL PLAY

A new feature in Negaunee High School dramatics was the production this year of the first all-school play. The project was a pronounced success and augurs well for the continuation of further all-school dramatic productions.

"Big Time", which was the play chosen for all school presentation, was a realistic production of school days, displaying the high school students of our every day life in the most natural of situations—a real comedy of high school back stage life.

The play proved to be the most diversified dramatic entertainment of the year. The opening act revealed a variety of types preparing for a series of vaudeville numbers, and it was replete with the merry banter and badinage of the student groups. Edward Pearce and Rudolph Thoren as Null and Void, were comedians of drollery; Glenmore Trembath, as Hercules Brown, made "Samson look like a Tyro"; Robert Kappes as Dr. Bleedem, was quite some quack monologist; and Julius Robertson as Hubert the Great, astounded with his feats of magic. George Bennett as Rupert and Savino Bessolo as Bill, his assistant, shared in the stage patter, and Trixie Miller, Corinne Davey, Rose Perucco, Jean Steele, Francis Choquette, and Signe Jokinen, added a realistic touch of high school life. Phyllis Skues, as Miss Redmond, displayed the happy faculty of getting things done, a virtue which she combined with a rare good humor and a complete understanding of the students with whom she came in contact. Aurelia Hendrickson as Beth, very capably carried one of the most difficult roles of the play.

The cake-walk dance, a black faced minstrel chorus, and the Spanish dance, brightened by the gay costumes of the girls and the music of tambourines, added much to the color and popularity of the production.

The third act, Driftwood, was a complete one-act play and furnished admirable opportunity for character portrayal. Arthur Doolittle as Jim Hardy, Sr., a dock watchman of the night shift, Florence Clayton as Meg, his daughter, and Allen Johns, as Jim Hardy, Jr., the son, displayed a histrionic ability superior to that usually found in high school dramatics. Donald Belstrom as Pat McGrath, and John Crowe as Larry Sullivan, policeman of the usual type, carried these minor parts most effectively.

The play was a financial as well as a dramatic success. The proceeds were added to the general high school fund.

CLUBS AT N. H. S.

Club activities are the natural outgrowth of the diversity of interests that permeate the student body of a school. At the same time that they proceed from these pupil interests, they likewise provide the opportunity for their expression. This year we have had eleven social, literary, and special-interest clubs. The program of work carried out by them is in no wise standardized, nor is the number and types of their meetings. Each club has at least one advisor chosen from the faculty of the school. In most instances elections take place twice annually, thereby extending the opportunity for demonstrating leadership. It is to be regretted that a large number of our pupils are not affiliated with any of these special-purpose organizations. Theoretically, it is probably possible to have clubs for everyone and everyone in a club, but that has not materialized in our school. However, the authorization for organizing other groups would very likely be made if the need and enthusiasm for more clubs were manifested.

What are some of the advantages and benefits from the club activities of our school? Certainly they afford the stimuli and opportunity for the exercise of initiative, originality, and leadership. Whatever the activities of the club, there is room for the functioning of these qualities.

In the second place, we can assert that club membership and participation gives practical training in a type of social relationship that every pupil will meet up with in after-school life when he must assume an articulate place in church or lodge, business or profession, luncheon club or social welfare society. The school must recognize this as a distinct educational need to be met.

Thirdly, we are warranted in saying that there is intrinsic value in club activities themselves. The skills practiced, the knowledges derived, the campaigns inaugurated and carried to successful end, the programs rendered, and the idealism and enthusiasm fostered—all of these and others that could be added are club values in their own right that hardly need further apology or vindication.

Clubs are a positive good in our school.

SENIOR GIRL SCOUTS

Scouting in Negaunee is on the increase! From the first small troop of sixteen Girl Scouts organized in 1926, we have expanded to two troops of fifty-two members in 1930!

Because of the rapid growth, a reorganization was necessary this fall. Pine Cone Troop 1 consists of twenty members which are divided into four patrols of five girls each. Troop 1 is composed of Junior and Senior girls only. The troop is under the leadership of Miss Fraser as captain and Miss Perala as lieutenant. The first meeting of the year was devoted to the election of officers for the year which are as follows:

President .....	Rita Scanlon
Vice-President .....	Helen Tregonning
Secretary .....	Louise Zappa
Treasurer .....	Taimi Martinen

Patrol Leaders: Dorothy Hooper, Rita Scanlon, Bernice Guibord, and Eleanor Jensen.

Pine Cone Troop 2 is composed of girls from the eighth, ninth and tenth grades. There are thirty-two members in this troop which is divided into four patrols of eight girls each. The troop is under the leadership of Miss Schoonover as captain and Miss Thomas as lieutenant. At the first meeting of the year the following officers were elected:

President .....	Lois Pearce
Vice-President .....	Mary Burke
Secretary .....	Corrine Davey
Treasurer .....	Phyllis Pearce

Fourth Row—Misses Thomas, Schoonover.

JUNIOR GIRL SCOUTS

Patrol Leaders: Aili Kujala, Florence White, Lois Pearce, and Phyllis Pearce.

The two troops, although organized separately, have many business and social affairs in common—since Girl Scouting is a National organization.

The Girl Scout Organization is a new opportunity for the building of character. Our girls are gathered together in groups or patrols quite of their own volition. Here they find a means of expressing their constantly changing stream of high spirits and good will through the various activities which each patrol may carry on as any little club may.

The troops meet on Tuesday evenings alternating with each other. Through the voluntary cooperation and comradeship of Scout activities such as work on rank tests, group discussion of vital topics, group singing, programs for which each patrol is responsible, refreshments, bi-weekly hikes, charity work, and money-raising programs thought and helpfulness for others is developed. As a result, our girls become better friends and better citizens. They develop keener minds, finer character and happier selves.

Besides their regular bi-weekly meetings the Girl Scouts have sponsored numerous other activities as: filling and delivering Thanksgiving Baskets to the needy; a Christmas Party; a Mother and Daughter Banquet; a money-raising program to gain funds for sending the girls to Camp Minneyata and helping to furnish the new children's addition at Morgan Heights Sanitarium. The money was raised by selling subscriptions to popular magazines and by sponsoring a movie "The Bishop Murder Case" at the Vista Theater.

Looking back over the months that are gone, The Pine Cone Troop feel that their time has not been in vain. They look forward to a steady growth of an organization whose ideals and plan of work build a happy, wholesome, beautiful girlhood, and a strong womanhood.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Last June at the final meeting of the Camp Fire Girls at Presque Isle, officers were elected for the coming year. They were:

President .....	Rita Rogers
Vice-President .....	Anna Moberg
Secretary .....	Aurelia Hendrickson
Treasurer .....	Elizabeth Pascoe

Mrs. J. L. Miller was chosen as the new assistant guardian, taking the place of Miss Myrtle Bice.

In the early part of the school year, the Camp Fire Girls heard about the new Children's Unit, to be built at Morgan Heights. They were immediately seized with the determination to furnish the girl's admission room at the "San"! In order to finance this they published a cook book by which they earned the National Honor, Shuta, which means written thought.

This year has been a great success from every standpoint. When the mists had cleared away surrounding the awarding of the Scholarship Cup, it was found that the Camp Fire Girls were the proud possessors of the trophy.

The members of the club are very grateful to their guardians, Miss Burt and Mrs. Miller, for their efforts during the past year. All are convinced that the achievements of this year are, by far, greater than that of any other year since the organization of the Cheskamay Group.

THE MINERVIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

The aim of the Minervian Literary Society is to help the girls in social and educational improvement and to give them a broader understanding by means of appropriate numbers on the programs. Besides this, it encourages dramatics and provides a wholesome recreation.

This year has been an especially successful one for the Minervians. Eight squads, each under the leadership of competent chairmen were formed, and it was their duty to present a program on the night assigned them. At these bi-weekly meetings, the members displayed their dramatic and musical abilities to a great advantage. Debates were popular and often became quite heated. The refreshment committee provided delicious treats from time to time.

At Christmas time, an informal party was given. After a very intersing program, gifts were exchanged and dancing enjoyed. A spring party, to take place sometime near Easter, is being planned.

Much credit is due Miss Dow, who has given both time and energy for the society, and the officers, who are as follows:

SWASTIKARS

OFFICERS

President .....	Martha Wiljanen
Vice-President .....	Glenmore Trembath
Secretary .....	Phyllis Skues
Treasurer .....	Sylvia Hemmila

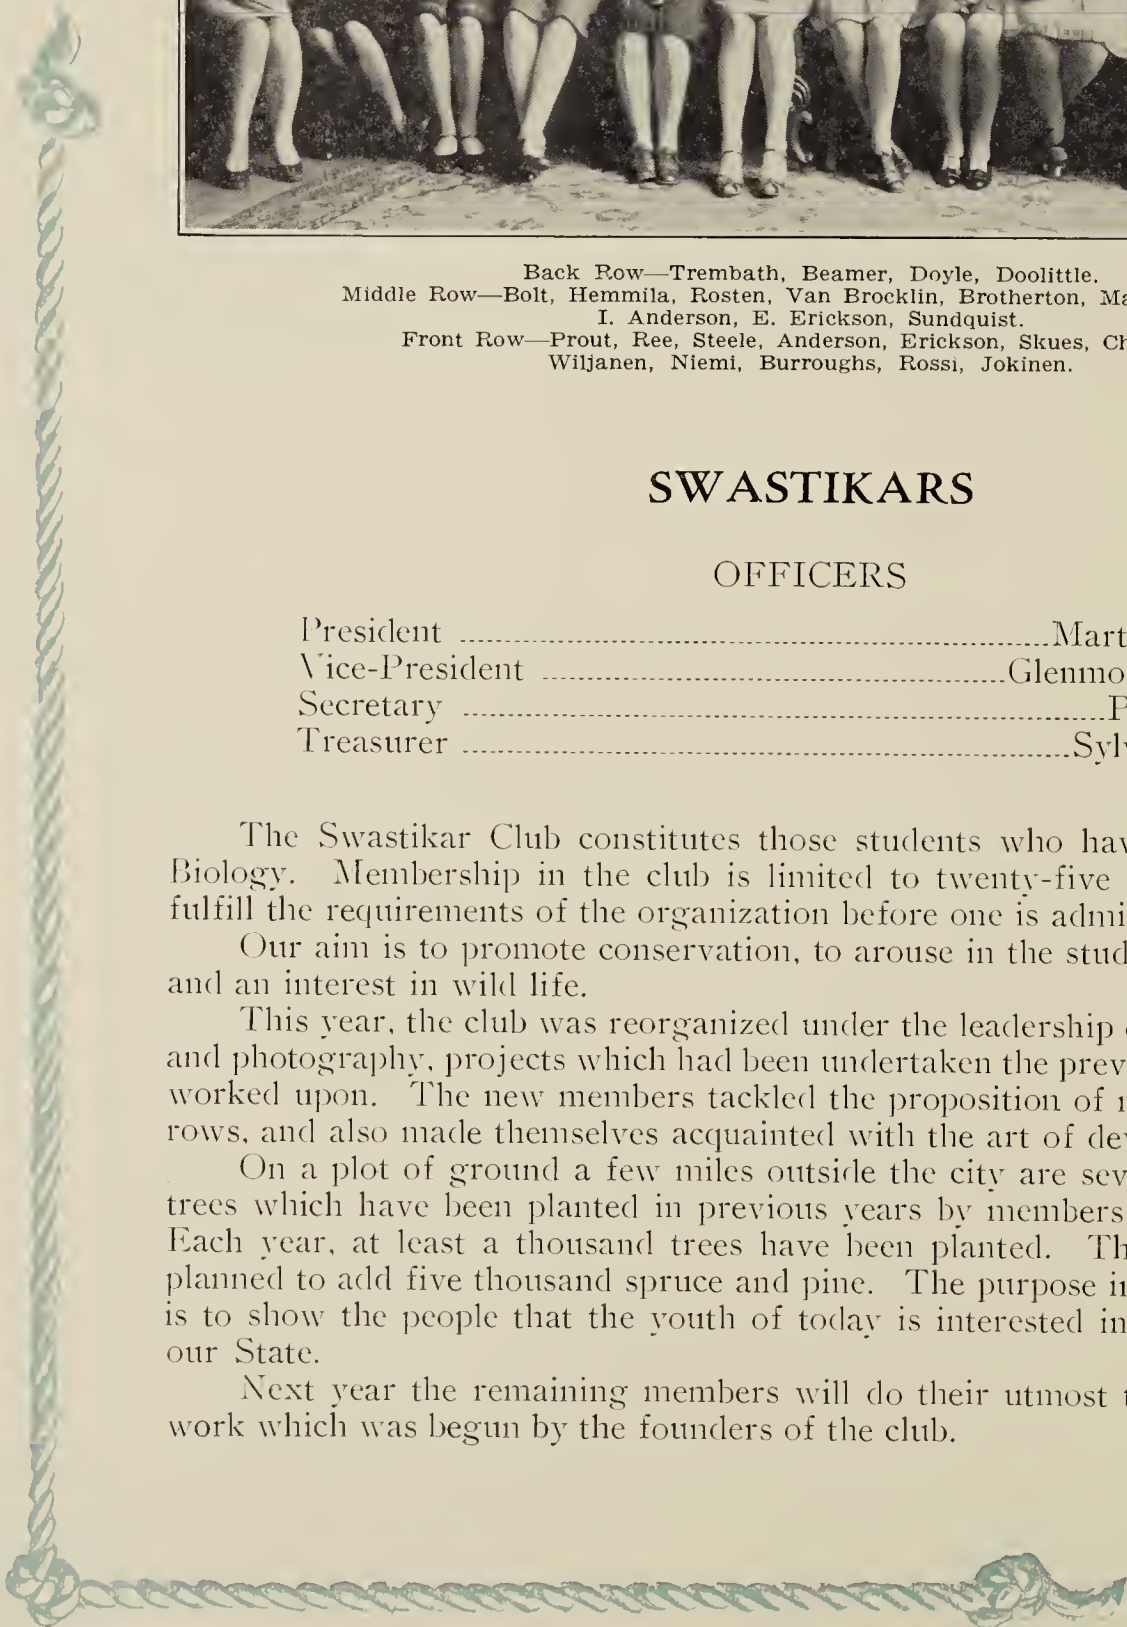

The Swastikar Club constitutes those students who have taken a course in Biology. Membership in the club is limited to twenty-five and each one has to fulfill the requirements of the organization before one is admitted to the club.

Our aim is to promote conservation, to arouse in the student a love for nature and an interest in wild life.

This year, the club was reorganized under the leadership of Mr. Bolt. Archery and photography, projects which had been undertaken the previous year, were again worked upon. The new members tackled the proposition of making bows and arrows, and also made themselves acquainted with the art of developing pictures.

On a plot of ground a few miles outside the city are several thousand young trees which have been planted in previous years by members of the organization. Each year, at least a thousand trees have been planted. This year the club has planned to add five thousand spruce and pine. The purpose in planting these trees is to show the people that the youth of today is interested in the reforestation of our State.

Next year the remaining members will do their utmost to continue the good work which was begun by the founders of the club.

HI-Y CLUB

“What is the purpose of our Hi-Y Club?

To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character.

“What is our club slogan?

The four C's. Clean Speech, Clean Athletics, Clean Scholarship and Clean Living.

“What does our club strive to develop?

—Hi-Y Opening Ceremony.

Hi-Y meetings are held regularly on Monday evenings. The programs given included talks, discussions, debates, impromptu speeches, readings and musical selections by members of the club and addresses by business and professional men who are invited to speak for the group. Once each month the club holds a supper for its members and occasional guests. These “feeds” are ordinarily prepared by the boys themselves and are popular events with the boys.

Among the projects sponsored by the Hi-Y Club this year are a Four C's Campaign, the Hi-Y Dance, and the Basketball Souvenir Program. The club was represented at the Older Boys' Conference and also at the U. P. and State Hi-Y Camps. For three consecutive years the club has qualified for the Registration Certificate which certifies affiliation with the Secondary Schoolboys' Christian Movement of North America. All of the regulars on the N. H. S. Basketball Team and a majority of the others on the squad were members of the Hi-Y.

Mr. O. L. Thorson and Coach E. W. Shadford have been Hi-Y advisors during the past year. Mr. Clifton M. Drury, Upper Peninsula Y. M. C. A. Secretary, has visited the club often and has rendered it valuable assistance.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

Le Cercle Francais, which was organized in November 1929, is the youngest of our High School organizations. This club is composed of thirty girls who were selected by a committee of nine who were rated as "A" students in French. The qualities considered in selecting members are scholarship, sportsmanship, and willingness to cooperate and promote the interests of the club.

The following officers were elected for the year 1929 and 1930 at a special meeting held early in November:

President .....	Ida Niemi
Vice-President .....	Aurelia Hendrickson
Secretary .....	Elizabeth Pascoe
Treasurer .....	Eva Wiljanen

Le Cercle Francais meets on the fourth Monday of each month at 7:15 P. M. The principal features of these meetings are French songs and games and occasionally refreshments.

Aside from regular meetings, the club enjoyed a Christmas Banquet, program and exchange of gifts.

Through correspondence with the Bureau of Educational Correspondence of Peabody College in Nashville, Tennessee, names were obtained for the purpose of corresponding with boys and girls in France. The letters, cards and souvenirs, collected in this way, help to stimulate a keen interest in the French Language.

THE PEP CLUB

The Pep Club is a distinctly pioneer organization, being the first of its kind in the high school. Its paramount aim is to further the school's spirit and to promote pep and better sportsmanship among the students. A very successful year for this new organization has been just completed and by its praiseworthy accomplishments, the society has proved its usefulness to the school. By issuing colorful programs at all the basketball and football games it has earned a niche in the school's hall of fame and the spirit stimulated by its members and displayed throughout the year reached such a climax at the Regional Tournament that all are convinced of the society's merit.

The Officers as selected for this year are:

President .....	Allen Johns
Vice-President .....	Elizabeth Pascoe
Secretary .....	Aurelia Hendrickson

Mr. McClung as Faculty advisor has made the purpose of the organization a most worthy one, and one deserving of support.

THE INDUSTRIAL CLUB

The Industrial Club is one of the newer organizations of the high school. The paramount aim of the club is to further educational responsibilities and to promote activities of interest to the vocational group. The first two years were what you might call the starting years of the club because the interest in the club was not so keen as that of the last year. The club has its meetings on the first and third Thursdays of the school month. The club is now trying to get the members interested in aviation and is building airplane models as a club project. The club has been holding a contest to procure a suitable design for a club pin. They have received many different designs but have not chosen a definite emblem as yet. The club has no order of dues, but the treasury is in good condition due to the help of some of the members in selling eskimo pies at the high school basketball games. The money realized goes to defray the expenses of the club project and different things of interest to the club. The purpose of the club is a most worthy one and one deserving of credit.

The officers for the first semester were: Mareo Portale, President; Julius Robertson, Vice-President; Orvill Krock, Secretary; Walter Hampton, Treasurer.

The officers for the second semester are: John Crowe, President, William Kallatsa, Vice-President; Claire Heinonen, Secretary; Reginald Carlyon, Treasurer.

THE NATIONAL FORENSIC LEAGUE

For the first time during the school year, 1929-30, the National Forensic League became an active organization in Negaunee High School life. Its purpose as expressed in the constitution is "to promote the interests of interscholastic debate, oratory, and public speaking, and to encourage a spirit of fellowship among its fellow members."

The National Forensic League, first sponsored by the Ripon College Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic society, was organized in April, 1925. Since that time it has grown until it now has 267 chapters established in sixteen states with a membership of 4525 students and coaches.

Late in the school year of 1929, an interest was manifested in the establishment in the Negaunee High School of a chapter of the National Forensic League. A charter was granted by the national organization and Negaunee became Chapter Number 259 of the League. The charter members, students who had qualified because of their participation in interscholastic debate, oratory, declamation, and extemporaneous speaking were Dorothy Stepens, '29; Aurelia Hendrickson, '30; Edna Phillips, '29; Helen Doyle, '29; Fred Staples, '29; Arthur Doolittle, '30; Rita Rogers, '30; and Miss Palmer, Debate Coach. During the present school year, Louise Zappa, '31; Claire Heinonen, '32, and Phyllis Skues, '30, have also qualified for membership. Phyllis Skues has served as president of the local chapter.

The members of the Negaunee chapter of the League early in the year directed their interests toward debating activities. Interscholastic debates were scheduled with the Escanaba High School, St. Joseph's High School at Escanaba, and the Palmer High School. As a member of the Michigan Debating League, contests were scheduled with the L'Anse High School, the Gwinn High School, and a dual clash with the Ishpeming High School. The question for discussion in all these debates was, "Resolved: That a judge or a board of judges be substituted for the jury in all trials in the state and municipal courts of Michigan." Members of this year's debating teams were Phyllis Skues, Rita Rogers, Claire Heinonen, and Louise Zappa.

The League takes great pride in the fact that two of its members carried off further honors in forensic activities, Claire Heinonen by winning second place in declamation in the sub-district contest, and Rita Rogers by winning first place in the sub-district oratorical contest.

CLAIRE HEINONEN

FRESHMAN-SOPHOMORE DECLAMATORY CONTEST

Having been preceded by preliminary contests in which about forty members of the Freshman and Sophomore classes sought the coveted right to represent their class, the annual declamatory contest was held on Tuesday, March 4. Eight students, four representing each class, competed with each other to represent Negaunee High School in the sub-district contest in Marquette on April 11.

The display of class spirit, always at its height for this annual class clash, was just as enthusiastic as any previous contest had been.

The judges awarded first place to Claire Heinonen, second to James Thomas, and third to Ruth Wassberg.

In winning first place, Claire Heinonen also won the right to represent Negaunee in the Sub-district contest. Among the nine schools entering contestants for this meet, Claire, by winning second honors, proved himself a dangerous rival and a worthy representative of Negaunee High.

The following students participated in the local contest:

Claire Heinonen .....	Citizenship
James Thomas .....	Spartacus to the Gladiators
Ruth Wassberg .....	Citizenship
Alice Crothers .....	Impeachment of Warren Hastings
Francis Choquette .....	Touissant L'Ouverture
Miriam Stepens .....	The Valley of Bones
Kathleen Hubbert .....	Citizenship
Charlotte Phillips .....	Citizenship

RITA ROGERS

ORATORICAL CONTEST

That the judges of the local oratorical contest held in the high school assembly, March 7th, appreciated real worth was verified April 11th at Marquette, when "The Tempter", Rita Rogers' oration, was accorded first place in the sub-district contest.

The local program appeared as follows:

1. Sylvia Hemmila ..... "Will the Piper Play Again?"
2. Aurelia Hendrickson ..... "The Two Minute Silence."
3. Anna Moberg ..... "The Hunger People."
4. Rita Rogers ..... "The Tempter."

Of these Aurelia Hendrickson and Rita Rogers were victorious, winning second and first honors respectively. The gentlemen who served as judges were: Orion Cardew, principal of Palmer High School; H. J. Anderson, principal of Graveraet (Marquette) High School, and Proctor Maynard, instructor in English, Ishpeming high school.

After more than a month's vigorous practice, ably coached by Mr. Fred G. Walcott, head of the English department, Rita journeyed to the sub-district affair. Eight students participated, representing Marquette and Alger counties.

The program:

1. "Propaganda" ..... Lawrence Hebbard, Ishpeming
2. "The Tempter" ..... Rita Rogers, Negaunee
3. "The New Age" ..... William Koski, John D. Pierce
4. "The Criminal Broadcast" ..... Viola Wiitala, Marquette
5. "Labor Problems" ..... Minerva Pesola, Palmer
6. "The Folly and Futility of the 18th Amendment" ..... Lowell Featherly, Chatham

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

THE NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

During the seven years that there has been a chapter of the National Honor Society at Negaunee High School, a tradition has developed that contributes in no small way to foster the ideals of the society. Chief of these ideals is that of SCHOLARSHIP. Scholarship as represented by the averages attained in three and one-half years of high school work determines eligibility, the pupils whose rank is in the upper one-third of the senior class constituting the group from which elections to membership must be made.

The objective of the society, however, is not merely to reward pure scholarship with a crown of honor. Rather it purposes to place a mark of distinction upon the good scholar who is, in addition, a good school citizen. The successful learner must also be a successful doer in order to merit this token of superiority. The elements of his citizenship must include outstanding CHARACTER, LEADERSHIP, and SERVICE. Character in this classification implies more than moral character. It connotes personality in its variety of phases such as likability, friendliness, originality, spontaneity, dependability, and enthusiasm. Leadership is not wholly apart from these traits, yet to be measured more objectively in the results achieved by the pupils. Service implies that the National Honor Society member must be a factor for good in his school and among his fellows. He must have so served that his school is better for his having been a pupil in it and that his schoolmates will know a loss as his direct influence ceases with graduation.

The seniors elected to membership in the society this year are Martha Wiljanen, Phyllis Skues, Evelyn Erickson, Rudolph Thoren, Anna Moberg, Savino Bessolo, Edward Goldsworthy, Arthur Doolittle, Virginia Violetta, William Rowse, and Signe Jokinen.

The officers chosen were :

President .....	Savino Bessolo
Vice-President .....	Rudolph Thoren
Secretary-Treasurer .....	Arthur Doolittle

EXTEMPORE SPEAKING

Negaunee High School's first interest in extempore speech began in 1929, when Rita Rogers won first place in a contest held in our own auditorium, between Negaunee, Ishpeming and Escanaba. The rules for this first contest were formulated by the coaches of the competing schools and did not conform to those suggested by the State Association.

This year, however, Negaunee entered the State Association, conforming strictly to state rules. A local elimination contest was held on April 25th, at which time the following people spoke on their respective subjects:

Arthur Doolittle .....	"Aviation Advances"
Mildred Burrows .....	"Chicago's Financial Difficulties"
Allen Johns .....	Mr. Hoover's First Year
Irene Huttula .....	"An Appraisal of William H. Taft"
William Trembath .....	"The New Chief Justice"
Walter Brotherton .....	"A New Planet Discovered"
Sylvia Hemmila,
	"Problems and Prospects of the London Conference"
Rita Rogers .....	"Churchless Russia"

One hour before the time of the contest each student drew three topics, two of which were returned; the third became the subject of his speech. At the end of the hour's preparation the contest was called, and each in turn talked upon the topic selected. The subjects were taken from The Literary Digest and The Review of Reviews, and were to be of national or international interest. First place in this contest was awarded to Rita Rogers, second to Aurelia Hendrickson, and third to Irene Huttula.

On Tuesday evening, May 6th, Negaunee entertained the first Upper Peninsula District Extempore Contest. The schools represented were Iron Mountain, Marenisco, Crystal Falls, Escanaba, Ishpeming, Marquette, L'Anse, and Negaunee. While first honors in this contest went to Louis Verrette of Iron Mountain, our own Rita Rogers won the equally coveted second place for Negaunee, speaking on the subject of Chicago's Difficulties, which entitled her to enter the State Contest at Kalamazoo on May 24th. The students of Negaunee High School all joined to congratulate Rita upon this splendid reward for her long and persistent years of forensic endeavor.

NEE-HY-NUZ

The Nee-Hy-Nuz staff succeeded this year in publishing a bi-weekly paper which equalled the newspapers of leading high schools in Michigan and far excelled others. Most of the issues consisted of five or six pages, and although it was necessary to have more advertisements because of a larger paper, more space was available to the display of up-to-the-minute school news.

The make-up of the paper included large headlines, and snappy, smaller sub-headings. A new feature was "The Inquiring Reporter," a column in which students and faculty members gave their opinions on special problems concerning school life. One whole page was devoted to live wire sport news.

Several letters were published, which the staff had received from people formerly connected with our school. These were of great interest, not only to the present students of the Negaunee High School, but also to alumni and former faculty members.

Numerous pictures and "cuts" made the newspaper more attractive than previously. Special holiday issues carried out various motives, including Hallowe'en, Thanksgiving, and Christmas.

The editorials and other articles expressed the desires which were closest to the hearts of the students and consequently brought about their fulfillment.

A fact which in itself speaks well for the Nee-Hy-Nuz, was the request made by the Kenosha High School of Kenosha, Wisconsin, to pattern their newspaper after ours, and as a result the "Kenews," first bi-weekly publication by that high school, is modelled after the Nee-Hy-Nuz.

Our newspaper was entered into the tenth All-American Critical Service conducted by the National Scholastic Press Association. It competed against 644 other high school newspapers and received the Second Class Honor Rating.

The staff realizes that much of the success of our paper must be accredited to Mr. Randall R. Penhale, faculty advisor, who gave so much of his time and so willingly taught the students the work of editing the paper.

The members of the staff, believing that they have followed a motto of our school, "Bigger and Better", pass the torch on to next year's staff with wishes for the same continued success.

NEGAUNEENSIA STAFF—1930

The Negauneensian Staff for the year 1930, was made up of Seniors who are members of the Class of 1930. These members were elected by their classmates with the help of faculty supervision and were chosen for each of the particular positions, because it was thought that they had special qualifications in discharging the duties in preparing this annual. It has been the sincere hope of the staff to be able to compile an annual which would be representative of Negaunee High School in all its life and phases. There have been several outstanding achievements by various divisions of the school that have aided very materially in making this annual a success. We feel that this annual will be superior in many respects in annual building, and we hope that we will be able to at least duplicate the record of the annual staff for 1929. Every member of the staff has worked in a most conscientious manner and has discharged their duties in a very noble fashion. It is our sincere hope that our efforts will perpetuate in future years many of the fond memories and renew many of the old acquaintances which were made there.

The staff takes this opportunity of thanking all those who in any way have helped in making this book a success. The cooperation among the entire school has been of the highest order, and it certainly has helped a great deal in compiling the necessary material. We especially want to thank Mr. Doolittle and Mr. Thorson for their feature articles. In addition, we want to thank the English Department, and in person do we want to thank Mr. Walcott and Mr. Penhale, and Miss Palmer and Miss Smedman in editing and preparing various feature articles. The Commercial Department, and Miss Cory in particular, has copied all of the copy, and prepared it for the printers, which has helped a great deal. We want to thank Mr. Merwin, of the Mining Journal, for his kindly aid and suggestions in setting up the Athletic Department, and making possible the individual pictures which make this department very distinct. Lastly we want to thank all those who in any way have contributed to the compiling, and success that we hope this book will have, and in leaving a book that will stand out as a mile stone in the history of our high school life.

7. "The American of Tomorrow" .....Mabel Peterson, Republic
8. "The Vision of Lincoln" .....Marion Heckathorne, Munising

Third, second, and first places, respectively, in the sub-district were awarded to William Koski, of John D. Pierce, Lawrence Hebbard of Ishpeming, and to Rita Rogers of Negaunee high school. Rita's success in the sub-district, made her eligible for participation in the district affray, held in our own auditorium, May 2.

To Rita should and does go the appreciation of the entire faculty and student body, for this splendid record of her forensic ability. Honor to whom honor is due.

First Row—Robertson, Toms, J. Robertson, Mr. LeMieux, Bessolo, Heinonen, Thomas.

MIXED CHORUS

1930 has been a banner year for the mixed chorus. The members have come to realize that hard work is necessary before success can be theirs. For this reason they have made a "go" of everything they have tried to put across—the operetta, cantata, and the May Festival. In attempting "Trial By Jury" and "The Death of Minnehaha," they have set a new standard of musical entertainment very different from anything previously given. The superiority of the mixed chorus was clearly demonstrated and the type of music presented to the public was much higher than in former years. No finer entertainment has ever been featured in the history of Negaunee High School music. Mr. LeMieux has been the bond which has held this organization together all year long and every one of the members deeply appreciates everything that he has done to keep the chorus on the great highway which leads to higher and finer things.

“THE DEATH OF MINNEHAHA”

The mixed chorus and the band put on their program on the same evening when the cantata, “The Death of Minnehaha” and the band concert were given. Everyone knows those famous words of Longfellow’s “Hiawatha”, our national epic. Then just imagine the marvelous effect they had when set to music. Minnehaha, the cold, the sick, the dying; Hiawatha, her brave lover; Nokomis, who watched unceasingly until the fatal moment came; the Famine and the Fever, those unbidden guests which always have brought terror and destruction;—all these were depicted. We had two very fine soloists, Helen Raatikainen, soprano, and Felix Sundquist, tenor. The mixed chorus certainly is to be congratulated for their fine rendition of this most difficult cantata.

“TRIAL BY JURY”

A new type of operetta was introduced this year, the special feature being the fact that it was all singing. A clever and astounding plot, full of laughs, was unfolded to an audience who appreciated fully every bit of our performance.

The scene was in the courtroom where the jury and the audience awaited the hour of ten and the opening of the trial. The defendant was first to make his appearance. He was a picturesque figure with his guitar and jaunty manner. After he finished his sad tale, everyone arose in deep submission to the judge who was seen entering the court. Indeed this illustrious man in cap and gown did no less than to tell us all how he came to be a judge. The bridesmaids heralded the approach of Angelina, the disappointed bride. Immediately the judge began a flirtation with one of the bridesmaids and kept it up until he saw the plaintiff. His affections twined and Angelina became the pet of the court. At last her counselor, a man of great knowledge, arrived and started the ball rolling. Of course the plaintiff won every argument, and the judge of this breach of promise lead, by the time court closed, fully decided to marry Angelina himself, and “they lived happily ever after.”

BAND

At last, the long-hoped-for Negaunee High School Band has been organized and has fulfilled our wildest desires. There are two reasons for this: first, the backing and the pep that the students have shown, and the unfailing amount of energy Mr. LeMieux has spent in making this organization a success. The band has been very cooperative with the student body in that it has never failed them at a home basketball or football game. It has set off our school spirit remarkably well by marching in our pep parades. They topped off a successful year with their band concert by appearing in full uniform and by playing remarkably well. Their highest hope, to go to the contest, cannot be fulfilled this year, but perhaps next.

ORCHESTRA

The high school orchestra has made exceptionally fine progress during the past year. The growth was most ably shown in the splendid concert given by this organization the same evening as the operetta. A large amount of enthusiasm has been shown by the students in the orchestra. Not only has a fine spirit been developed but the material progress is much greater than last year's. Another double bass viol, two violoncellos, four violins, four violas, and a flute have been added. Mr. LeMieux has proved himself a most capable director and has worked with unsurpassed energy with our orchestra.

THE JUNIOR PROM

On the night of May 23, a large number of dancers enjoyed a pleasant evening at the Japanese Ball. The Juniors had worked for weeks to make their prom a success, and they were rewarded for their efforts by the large number present.

Streamers of soft shades arranged in the shape of a pagoda formed a false ceiling. Japanese lanterns of every hue hung down from the ceiling through which colored lights gleamed on the dancers. Cherry trees covered with blooms lined the walls of the gymnasium. The guests entered that fascinating Japan over a beautiful bridge characteristic of that country. Luxurious furniture and comfortable swings provided luring resting places between dances. Music was furnished by the Johnson's Dance Kings of Iron Mountain. They added much to the atmosphere of the ball with their program of captivating dance music.

The dance programs were miniature pagodas, and the favors were Japanese fans. Punch was served by girls attired in coolie coats.

The patrons and patronesses were, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Doolittle, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Thorson, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Y. S. Heinonen, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kearns, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Choquette.

This was the first prom Mr. Moehrke has put on in Negaunee and we congratulate him on his good taste and fine results.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PARTY

Midst a myriad of colors, the members of the Junior and Senior classes assembled on the evening of Friday, November 8, for their annual party. Beldo's Blue Blowers furnished the rhythm and the merry-makers "tripped the light fantastic" until eleven o'clock, when refreshments were served. Immediately after, dancing was again resumed and the jollity continued. It was with heavy hearts that the dancers heard the familiar strains of "Home Sweet Home."

For the seniors this party stands as a fitting climax to four years of social life, while the juniors are eagerly looking forward to the party next year.

SENIOR-FACULTY BANQUET

On Thursday evening, May 8, the members of the class of 1930, the school board, and the faculty assembled in the first floor corridor for an airplane ride.

The plane, of which Miss Palmer was pilot, was designed and decorated by a committee of which Miss Perala was chairman, assisted by the Misses Dow and Smedman, and the Messrs. Miller and Penhale. The dinner was planned by the teachers in the Home Economics Department and was declared most delicious by all aviators present.

During the flight the following program was presented:

Welcome .....	Mr. O. L. Thorson
Response .....	Evelyn Erickson
Oiling and Contact .....	Miss Myrtle Cory
Motor Purr .....	Miss Sue Kearns
Take-Off .....	Savino Bessolo
Flight .....	Mr. H. S. Doolittle
Exhaust .....	Paul Goodman, Edward Pearce
Observations .....	Mr. A. C. Hansen
Landing .....	Phyllis Skues
Music in the Air .....	Faculty and Guests

The Merry Men (all of whom are alumni of Negaunee High School) harmonized with the "Motor Purr" by providing suitable rhythmic selections.

THE SENIOR SEND-OFF

On the evening of June 19, the members of the class of '30, the faculty, and also the under-graduates assembled in the gymnasium to bid the Seniors "God-Speed" on their journey on in life. The party was very informal, there being no programs or any of the various things that go along with a formal dance. Dancing was enjoyed by all present as the music of a splendid orchestra called even the most timid Freshman to the floor. Every one of the dancers had a most delightful time and felt rather sad when the music-makers played Home Sweet Home.

The Senior Send-Off has come to the point where it is a part of the annual graduation exercises. Up to this time the party has been a formal one and this year marks the first time that an informal Send-Off has been given. Everyone agrees, however, that in the case of the senior's farewell dance, an informal party is the best type of an affair and that this year's Senior Send-Off was the best yet.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS PARTY

Climaxing a year of successful class activities, the annual Sophomore class party was held in the gymnasium on Friday evening, April 25. To the music of the Merry Melody Men, the sophomores and their guests, officers of the senior, junior, and freshman classes, and members of the faculty truly made merry.

The party had scarcely gotten under way when favors of teeny little hats were given to all. Later, when dainty musical Pierrot head wands were passed out to the girls and chanticleer horns to the boys, the real noisemaking began. Confetti guns, loaded with several shots of confetti, heightened the fun and proved to be the hit of the evening, and when later hundreds of rolls of serpentine began to wind their way down from the balcony, the success of the party was assured. The sophomore party was to be one of the gayest of high school life. During the intermission, refreshments of ice cream and wafers were served.

All too soon the party became another memory of high school days, but what a pleasant memory!

THE FRESHMAN PARTY

The orchestra playing, bagpipes blowing, tambourines shaking, and gayly-dressed lads and lassies dancing amidst the brightly-colored serpentines, would be what you would have seen and heard had you looked into the gymnasium Friday night, March twenty-eighth, nineteen thirty. The most important event of the year (for the freshies) was then in progress—the Freshman Party.

After much planning and anticipating, it began at eight o'clock, with the Merry Melody Men providing the jazz. Everyone started to strut his stuff, and the time passed only too quickly.

The favors, which were tambourines and tam o'shanters for the girls, and bagpipes and Scotch hats for the boys, were passed out and following that the Grand March took place. It was the feature of the evening and the Class of '33 will tell you that there never was or never will be another like it.

During the intermission, Charlotte Phillips and Edna Moberg danced the Highland Fling, and they surely did make sweet Scottish lassies. Refreshments, consisting of cake and ice cream, were then served with the Home Economics girls supervising.

The time seemed to fly on golden wings, for while some "tripped the light fantastic," others joined in some of the many games; but everyone was pleased with the beginning of his social life in high school. If you had seen the looks of disappointment on their faces and heard the oh's and ah's when the orchestra played "Home Sweet Home," there would have been no doubt in your minds as to whether they had enjoyed themselves or not.

—Miriam Stepens.

THE HI-Y DANCE

Under a canopy of pine and cedar boughs, with the gymnasium rich with the fragrance of pine and breathing an atmosphere of the forest, the annual Hi-Y Dance was celebrated on the evening of November 26. A large number of high school students and alumnae attended the ball. Clever dance programs and favors added to the charm of the scene and punch was served throughout the party—depicting true Thanksgiving cheer. Doto's Musical Mountaineers furnished a program of beautiful dance numbers. Though the Hi-Y's Thanksgiving Ball has become an annual function, there are many who firmly believe that this year's dance was the best that the club has held.

U. P. OLDER BOYS' CONFERENCE

When nineteen Negaunee High School boys and Mr. Randall R. Penhale, adult leader, departed Friday morning, February 14, for Ironwood to attend the annual Boys' Conference, there was in store for them (as time later proved) one of the greatest of life's experiences.

The sessions this year were under the capable and friendly direction of Mr. Cliff Drury, Upper Peninsula "Y" secretary. His plans included splendid addresses and talks by President Spencer of Hillsdale College, Coach Phelan, formerly of Purdue University, Professor Norman Knutzen of Lawrence College, (whose visit to Negaunee on March 31 will be remembered), Coach McClintock of Northern State Teachers College, and Captain Ball of Michigan College of Mines and Technology, Mr. Byrum, and Ray Johns of the State "Y" staff.

Of particular interest to all delegates were the forceful and pointed addresses of Dr. Spencer. None of us will forget these striking statements:

"You can measure a man—

1. By the depth of his convictions,
2. By the breadth of his sympathy,
3. By the height of his ideals."

Coach Phelan's weighty words still ring in our ears! No amplifiers were needed for the great Boilermaker! He had brought two splendid lungs! The great mentor made us boys feel the thrill of the genuine, healthy, happy boy life. We seemed to be playing on his champion eleven, enjoying the inevitable bumps, yet always coming out on top—victorious! What a privilege to be on "Jimmy" Phelan's squad!

A resume of the Ironwood gathering would be seriously incomplete without a word regarding those fine discussion groups directed by Messrs. Knutzen, Ball, Byrum, McClintock, Johns, and the adult leaders. A great many of our problems in the realms of Vocations, Choice of College, Boy and Girl Relations, Athletics are partially cleared up, if not completely solved.

Despite the sub-zero weather, the frozen ears of more than one too-proud delegate, the Conference was one huge success. It was thoroughly enjoyed if reports from the Negaunee delegates to their respective sponsoring organizations are any indication. Though these lines may not meet the eyes of an Ironwood citizen, the local delegation desires to express its gratitude to their kindly, ever thoughtful hosts of the Border City. Should it ever be possible for Negaunee to entertain a conference, it will be our pleasure to reciprocate in kind.

COME CLEAN

When the game is on and your friends about,
And you could put your rival out
By a trick that's mean, but wouldn't be seen ;
PLAY CLEAN, fellows, PLAY CLEAN.

When exams are called and you want to pass
And know how you could lead your class,
But the plan's not square—you know it's mean ;
COME CLEAN, fellows, COME CLEAN.

When you're all alone with no one about,
And not a soul would find it out,
You're tempted to do a thing that's mean ;
BE CLEAN, fellows, BE CLEAN.

For a home awaits, and a girl that's true
And Church and State have need of you ;
They must have your best—on you they lean ;
KEEP CLEAN, fellows, KEEP CLEAN.

This year, E. W. Shadford, in his third year as football mentor, developed one of the classiest gridiron machines that has represented the Maize and Blue for years. With seven letter-men forming a nucleus, our boys showed a record of four victories, two tie games, and one defeat. The summary of the games follows:

Ishpeming, the first opponent, fell before the aggressive attack of the Miners, 12-6. Rudness and Pearce scored against our traditional rivals.

The next Saturday, the Crystal Falls team was slaughtered by the vicious attack of the Blue Devils, 25-0. Negaunee showed its real power in this battle. The backs were veritable mercuries, while the defense was impregnable. "Mushy" Phillips, substituting for Pearce, snagged a pass in the third quarter and raced 65 yards to the goal.

Calumet was the next in line for the Shadfordites. Our boys were held to a 13-13 tie at the Copper Country metropolis. The team showed great ability to fight when the going became rough. Doolittle and Phillips, the two crack ends, scored on passes from Rudness.

The following Saturday, Munising, undefeated in two years, cavorted on the home grid. Before a large crowd, the Miners battled the Orange and Black warriors to a 6-6 deadlock. Allen Phillips was the offensive star, while Pearce and Lahti were the defensive aces.

Shadford's men resumed their winning ways the following Saturday, when the much-heralded Marquette team was handed an 8-6 defeat. Leo Remmilard was the shining light for the Maize and Blue.

Then on a bright warm Saturday afternoon the Blue Devils, who seemed to be nursing a grudge, attacked the Ishpeming gridmen with a vengeance. Watson's men were handed a terrific lacing. In summing it up, we might call it "a bolt from the blue." When the smoke of battle had cleared and all casualties had been checked up, the final tabulations showed Negaunee with 74 points and Ishpeming with the proverbial "goose egg."

The next Saturday the Blue and Gold met with their first defeat. Gladstone won from the fighting Shadfordites 20-13. Twice our boys tied the score, but finally succumbed to the Delta city crew. The backfield displayed great ability, while the line was fighting throughout.

We have every reason to be proud of the fighting N. H. S. football team. Next year another good season is looked forward to. The following letter-men will be back: Airaudi, Rudness, the Phillip brothers, Hakkairainen, Connors, Remmiliard, Garbett, Toms, Doty, and Bernardo.

The following boys were rewarded with their N's: Lahti, A. Phillips, M. Phillips, Wehmanen, Thoren, Maki, Hakkarainen, Airaudi, Connors, Gaviglio, Pearce, Gleason, Remmilard, Rudness, Marchall, Antell, Johns, Romo, Garbett, Holman, Doty, Doolittle, Williamson, Lindstrom, Toms, Johnson, Bernardo, Besolo, Antilla.

In an exceptionally fast game for the opening clash of the season, Baraga High School (Parochial) lost to Shadford's clever court aggregation 21 to 9. Doolittle at center snared ten points for the Miners. Incidentally it was the first defeat for Baraga in three seasons.

Our next game was with the Soo. Revealing one of the best passing combinations seen on our court for a long time, the Cranemen handed the Blue and Gold a 21 to 11 defeat. The game was close throughout the first half, but the absence of Rudness and Thoren handicapped the Blue and Gold.

The next night the fighting Shadfordites showed a complete reversal of form after the Soo defeat, and walloped the strong Newberry team, 28 to 13. Lindstrom took scoring honors with 14 points.

On the following Friday evening the Blue and Gold had an easy time in wresting a 30 to 13 victory from Gwinn. Captain Doolittle scored enough points to win from the Model Towners. In this game Coach Shadford was able to try several different combinations and he experimented with his men successfully.

The next game on the Miners' schedule was with our old rival, Ishpeming. The Blue and White, with an exceptionally strong team, was no match for the Negaunee attack, succumbing to a 23 to 16 lacing. Rudness and Lindstrom, the Scandinavian forward combination, were responsible for fifteen points. Doolittle was out of the game with an injured wrist, but he was ably replaced by Maki.

The Negaunee fans were treated to a real treat the following Friday when the fast Escanaba team furnished a battle royal for the Miners, who finally won out, 39 to 31, after a last period rally. Lindstrom and Phillips divided scoring honors with ten and eleven points respectively.

Marquette, our next opponent, gave the Blue and Gold a hard tussle on the Marquette court. Scoring was even in practically every quarter, but the Shadfordites finally drew away from the Queen City aggregation to win 27 to 19. Lindstrom showed an uncanny eye for the loop and snared fourteen points.

Lake Linden furnished the next battle. Traveling to the Copper Country town, the Miners handed the Lakes quintet a 36 to 12 lacing. Rudness took honors with thirteen points.

The following week the Blue and Gold warriors set out for their annual trip to the eastern end of the Peninsula. The Soo was the first opponent. Negaunee had revenge for their defeat sustained earlier in the season to the tune of 29 to 15. The second lap of the trip brought the men to the Celery City stronghold. Lindstrom, Doolittle, and Thoren were the offensive stars in the 34 to 22 victory.

Munising High School was the next victim of the unrelenting attack of the Miners. A large delegation of fans accompanied the team to Munising. The Blue and Gold handed the Jackson-men a 30 to 18 trimming. Rudness with eleven points, took scoring honors.

Negaunee won the next game with Marquette High on the following Friday. It was conceded to be the best game of the season, the score being 25 to 24. After thirty-four minutes of gilt-edged basketball, the Miners won out in the final minute of play. Rudness and Lindstrom were the offensive stars, while Williamson starred on defense.

The boys journeyed to Ishpeming the following Friday for their second game with the Hematites. The Blue and White were out for revenge and they got it 17 to 15. Two free throws proved to be the margin of victory. The game, by contrast with the preceding games, was slow and listless throughout. The Ishpeming boys made good on seven free throws while the Miners were able to garner but five out of eight.

The final game on the Shadfordites's schedule was with the highly touted Red Devils of Ironwood. Showing a complete reversal of form from the preceding week, the Blue and Gold warriors emerged from the fray with a 42 to 24 victory. The game, one of the roughest of the season, was witnessed by a large crowd of fans. Referee Eddie Chambers called twenty-eight fouls during the battle. Three Negaunee warriors were sent to the showers on fouls, Rudness, Lindstrom, and Thoren. The Scandinavian forward wall, Lindstrom and Rudness, were responsible for sixteen points apiece.

DISTRICT TOURNAMENT

March 7, was the date of the District Tournament, held in the local gymnasium. Negaunee drew Marquette for their first game.

Showing the snappy-passing, hard-fighting Negaunee spirit, the Blue Devils handed the Red and White cagers a 26 to 18 defeat.

Winning their first game entitled the Miners to play for District Championship honors against their friendly rivals, Ishpeming, who had won from the Soo in the opening round.

The Shadford boys opened fire with the opening of the play and were the aggressors throughout. Rudness, Lindstrom, Doolittle, and Gleason each contributed four points. The final tabulation showed the Negaunee men with a 16 to 12 win, making them District Champions and incidently contenders for U. P. honors.

REGIONAL TOURNAMENT

The gods decreed that Negaunee would play Calumet in the first round of the Regional play. Cutting loose with a fast-breaking and passing attack at the opening of play, the Miners walloped the Calumet cagers 44 to 20. Rudness and Captain Doolittle were

"on" and led the scoring with fourteen and twelve point totals respectively. Each of the regulars had a hand in the scoring.

Iron Mountain, runner up last year, was the next obstacle in the path of the Blue and Gold's championship quest. Capturing the lead at the beginning of the game, the Blue Devils were never headed, emerging victorious once more with a 27 to 24 victory. Negaunee showed positive superiority in every phase of the game. Doolittle led the scoring with eleven points.

The Blue and Gold had, by winning from Iron Mountain, gained the right to contend for U. P. honors once more, after an absence of four from the Regional Competition. The strong Stambaugh team, champions last year, were destined to be the Miners' nemesis. After a disastrous first half, in which Stambaugh scored sixteen points to the Shadfordites four, the boys came back to outscore the champions thirteen to five in the second half; but the margin was too great and the final count was 21 to 17, leaving Negaunee just three points behind the champions. The Miners gained the right to play in the State Tournament at Detroit. The following week the squad of ten and their Coach and student manager entrained for the Lower Peninsula.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

In a game which was tied four times the snappy Negaunee cagers defeated Coldwater, 33 to 27. The game see-sawed back and forth in the first three quarters; but in the last period the Coldwater defense cracked and the Blue and Gold ran up thirteen points.

This game put our boys in the semi-finals against Grand Haven, conquerors of Stambaugh and State Champs last year. The game played in the Olympia at Detroit, was witnessed by a large delegation of Negaunee fans. It was a real thriller and kept the crowd of 9,000 "on their toes" throughout. Lindstrom won the admiration of the crowd by his thrilling basket-shooting which saved the game in a real "dime-novel fashion."

St. Mary's of Orchard Lake was determined to be the last obstacle in the path of the fighting machine of Negaunee court stars. By running up high scores during their first two games, the St. Mary's team looked mighty impressive. But the Blue Devils were not to be beaten.

After trailing in the first half, the Miners came back to take the lead at the opening of play in the last period by characteristically fighting harder as the going became rougher. The final score showed Negaunee with thirty-one points and St. Mary's with twenty-five. A fighting band of Blue and Gold warriors had carried off the State Honors.

After such a splendid season in which the boys brought honor and glory to our school the boys were extended many courtesies by the loyal fans and fellow students. We cannot say too much in praise of the fighting Shadfordites who have been justly crowned the Champions of the State of Michigan.

They have given the Class of 1930 something which its members may look back upon with pride.

TRACK 1929

Due to the unfavorable weather conditions, the Blue and Gold track men did not enjoy a very successful year. However, Coach Shadford's call for men was pleasing to the mentor, about fifty boys coming out. Bannon, Beldo, and Collins, veterans of the former year, formed the nucleus of the team.

The boys were handicapped by the sort of season and the inclement weather but managed to place third in the local invitational meet however. Banon, Beldo, M. Phillips, and A. Phillips represented our school at the U. P. meet which was held at Iron Mountain. Bannon, Beldo, Collins, and Roos were given their letters.

A better season is looked forward to this year with both Phillips and Trembath back for distances, and Gleason for the high jump, while the shorter distances will be taken care of by talented speedsters.

THE BOYS' "N" CLUB

The boys' "N" Club, organized last year by Coach Shadford, was continued this year. The club was open to all boys who had won an "N" in High School Athletics. At one of the early meetings, "Pop" Lahti, football captain, was elected President, George Bennett, Athletic Manager, was chosen vice-president and Leo Remillard, secretary-treasurer.

About thirty boys comprise this club. Mr. Shadford, who is well versed in organizations of this kind, was responsible for the success of the Club.

SOME OBSERVATIONS ON ATHLETICS

If we estimate the amount of work actually done in throwing for the baskets in our gymnasium during one season by the high school squad and all of the twenty-six league teams, it comes to something over seven million foot pounds of work; enough to raise a weight of seven million pounds through a distance of one foot or a weight of seven thousand pounds to a height of one thousand feet. This is exerted only in throwing the ball. Add to this the energy expended in running about the floor, passing the ball, rooting for the teams, staging celebrations and razzing the officials and the total would be enough to erect several buildings as large as our high school or it would make a fair start toward building one of the pyramids. Not only that, but some of the epithets applied to officials by a few of our rooters would make Pharoah's slave drivers blush with shame at the inadequacy of their vocabularies.

In football it is the same. Over one hundred boys in football suits were at work nearly every afternoon for an hour and a half over a period of eight or nine weeks at football strategy; scrimmaging, running, blocking and tackling with an expenditure of energy that would raise a fair sized skyscraper.

Some of the older generation are inclined to shake their heads in disapproval at the waste of so much energy. It is like Niagara unharnessed and should be used to do useful work, they say. How many cords of wood could be split, how many rugs beaten, and how much snow could be shoveled with all of this energy. The answer cannot be immediately computed, nor can the results be measured in dollars and cents but rather in the development of muscle and coordination, of skill, agility, team work and cooperation. These are assets which are of greater permanent value than could be gained through individual effort. Only those who are too commercially minded and who are lacking in an appreciation of higher values want to harness Niagara anyway.

Approximately 30 scheduled games of football and 350 games of basketball are played by teams representing this high school each year. It is our aim to have every boy a member of some team which plays a series of scheduled games under competent management and officiating.

This rather extensive program of intramural and high school athletics is promoted not so much in the hope of mere physical development as that each boy may gain at least an appreciation of the ideals of athletics. Rough play does not necessarily demand that the player be a roughneck. Instead, he must learn to respect the rights of others, control his temper, give his best effort unselfishly, stick to his task under difficulties, be always on the square, and be courteous and courageous. Many of the experiences of boys in athletics are later duplicated in real life situations. The time often comes when there is very urgent need to "Hold that line."

JUNIOR FOOTBALL LEAGUE

This year the football league, for those who did not make the varsity, was a success. Three teams, Army, Navy, and Marines, were again organized by Mr. Doolittle and three capable leaders assigned to the different teams.

The Junior league teams played several preliminary games against smaller schools and second teams of county high schools.

The play offs put the Army, managed by Mr. McClung, in first place. Mr. Moehrke's Navy were tied with Mr. Rudness' Marines after subsequent play offs.

GIRLS' VOLLEY BALL

Each class in High School is represented by two teams, each consisting of twelve players.

The object of the game is to get the ball over the net without having it touch the floor. The competition was unusually keen this year, especially between the Juniors and Seniors. The Captain and members of the team choose a name by which they are known throughout the volley ball season.

The captains of this year's teams are as follows:

Freshmen—Charlotte Philips .....	"Boots Chums"
Violet Pulkinen .....	"Breadwinners"
Sophomores—Elsie Mattson .....	"Emmy Schmaltz's Gals"
Jean Steele .....	"Broadway Babies"

Margaret Agnoli (Capt.)	Tyne Rossi
Dorothy Hooper	Lucille Donnithorne
Helen Tregonning	Mildred Hansen
Violet Maki	Violet Kokko
Vienno Romo	Anna Choquette
Emma Nelson	Josephine Gambotto
Grace Levellie

After the tournament "The Racers" treated "Our Gang" to a supper.

This year there was a contest within a contest, for besides the prizes given to the members of the winning teams, Miss Fraser offered an individual prize to the highest scorer. This was won by Lucille Donnithorne and the prize was a blue slipover sweater. A prize surely worth working for.

—Virginia Violetta.

Standing—Greenway, Jokinen, Miss Fraser, Rogers, M. Vanni.
 Sitting—Violetta, Wallis, Vanni.

APPARATUS CONTEST

The girls' apparatus contest was held in the gymnasium on April 14, 1930. Each gym class was represented by one squad. This squad was the one having received the highest number of points for work done on the horse, buck, bars, ropes, and stunts. During the class period each squad had worked under a special squad leader and had kept score in an apparatus book. Thus the work done by the squads in each class was easily checked and the final competing squads chosen. The winning squad receives a silver cup and each member gets an individual prize offered by Miss Fraser, who has given a considerable amount of her time in coaching them.

The winning squad is composed of:

Leader—Lucille Donnithorne
Margaret Agnoli	Lois Curnow
Mildred Burroughs	Edith Hampton
Dorothy Hooper	Grace Leveillie
Salmi Kentinen	Eva Wiljanen

The runners-up include:

Leader—Helen Adams

THE “N” CLUB

As usual, the Girls' “N” Club was not organized until the volley ball and basketball season was over. Only those girls who had taken part in these two activities during the year were eligible to the club.

The girls and Miss Fraser, their leader, meet on the third Thursday of every month at six o'clock. At these meetings supper is served by a committee of five and it is followed by an hour of dancing. The purpose of the club is to further the girls' interest in athletics. The club has a membership of twenty-six, including Miss Fraser.

The presiding officers are as follows:

President .....	Gwendolyn Wallis
Vice-President .....	Myrtle Lenten
Sec-Treas. ....	Signe Jokinen

THE NEGAUNEENSIAN STAFF OF 1930

takes this opportunity to thank the business men of Negaunee, Ishpeming and Marquette and others who have so wonderfully loaned their whole-hearted support in making this, our annual, a possibility. In expression of our sincere gratefulness we wish to suggest that all of our subscribers, and others who will come in contact with this book, patronize our advertisers. We realize that this is a most humble return for the sincere cooperation which the business men of this vicinity give us, but we will endeavor to work hand in hand with them in every opportunity that we have.
